

Sr Naomi Hamilton - Congregation of Jesus

I grew up without learning about God at home. I learnt Christian basics at school, and in my teens I felt an insistent call within me to find out what God was about. In the end I decided I had to try believing in order to understand, so I just said 'OK, I believe' – it was as if a door opened and a new world full of light and love was there for me. I am sure God has a plan for each of us, and I feel called to be a channel of God's love for others. Now I am a Sister of the Congregation of Jesus, and work as a spiritual director and vocations guide. I listen to people's life stories, their prayer, their hopes and fears, and their various experiences of God, to help them explore their relationship with God, grow spiritually and follow their own particular path.
